Biographical Note: Jane Adams Dingess was a rather busy woman who was born and raised in Huntington, West Virginia. She graduated from Huntington High School in 1918 and went on to attend West Virginia University. She married her husband, Joe W. Dingess, in 1925 and became very active in the Huntington community. In 1942 she went back to school at Marshall College to earn a recertification for teaching. She was involved with the debutantes, Junior League, Daughters of the American Revolution, and West Virginia Conservation.

Scope and Content: Huntington, West Virginia, clubwoman and educator. Papers consist primarily of scrapbooks of school days at Huntington High School, West Virginia University, and Washington and Lee University; also included are resource materials related to conservation and social studies and items concerning the Junior League, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames and garden club activities. Photographs of Italy in WWI, papers from the Marshall University plan crash in 1970, extensive newspaper clippings from circa WWII and conservation resource material.
